- + Subaru and DriveMyCar continue collaboration on unique experiential marketing campaigns
- + Largest ever addition of vehicles to the DriveMyCar fleet
- + Material contribution to revenue and gross profit growth expected.

Collaborate Corporation Limited (ASX:CL8) (Collaborate or the Company) is pleased to announce that its DriveMyCar business unit has commenced accepting bookings for the first of the 2018 model Subaru XV's. 105 vehicles will be available in total at $259 per week for Uber drivers and $299 per week for private and corporate renters. This launch follows a highly successful collaboration in March 2017 around the launch of the Subaru Impreza.

For the launch of the Subaru Impreza in March 2017, DriveMyCar and Subaru Australia developed a unique marketing campaign that built brand awareness for the Impreza. 100% of the 101 vehicles were rented within 2 weeks.

Subaru Australia Managing Director, Colin Christie described the Impreza campaign, which saw over 20,000 people experience driving or riding in the new Impreza as 'hugely successful'.

Following that success, Subaru will apply that experiential marketing technique to the launch of the new 2018 Subaru XV.

The experiential marketing campaign includes two key elements that provide opportunities for thousands of Australians to experience and test drive the new Subaru XV, in unique ways not previously utilised by other automotive manufacturers. Firstly, DriveMyCar is providing "try before you buy" opportunities enabling prospective Subaru customers to rent the XV for extended test drives to truly experience them in real-life situations. More significantly, the XV vehicles will also be available for rental by Uber drivers, providing opportunities for thousands of Uber passengers to experience first-hand the quality and features of the 2018 model Subaru XV.

By employing this marketing approach Subaru will provide opportunities to directly experience the vehicle first hand and may influence potential customers who may not have otherwise engaged with Subaru through traditional marketing channels.

Subaru Australia Managing Director, Colin Christie, said: "Our previous success with the Levorg and Impreza models gives us every confidence that we can continue to expand our audience through use of the new Subaru XV, in collaboration with DriveMyCar.

"It's another great example of our Subaru 'do' customer-centric philosophy of continually finding new ways to engage with both existing and prospective customers."

Chris Noone, Collaborate Corporation CEO said "Our relationship with Subaru is going from strength to strength and this new deal is further evidence of how our online marketplaces can deliver unique benefits to consumers and marketers. We received very positive feedback from renters about the Impreza, including enquiries about purchasing the vehicles. We expect the Subaru XV will be just as popular."
